TRAINER ANSWER KEY

Lab 3 – Prompt Challenge

Suggested points to look for during debrief.

1. Explain the issue

A strong response should explain that the fictional SCN questions the input tax credit claimed on invoices issued before the supplier's registration cancellation, and asks for supporting evidence. It should avoid turning the allegation into a final conclusion.

2. Compare references

Judgment A emphasizes that later cancellation does not automatically resolve the issue and focuses on transaction evidence. Judgment B places greater emphasis on documentary evidence and says insufficient evidence can prevent the claim from being sustained. Both focus on evidence, but with different emphasis.

3. Arguments

Client-supporting facts include invoice dates before cancellation, bank-transfer payments, and available e-way bills/goods receipt notes. A department-side argument may focus on whether the taxpayer can establish all required documentary/reconciliation evidence. GSTR-2B status remains unconfirmed.

4. Structure

Expected outline: Introduction → Facts → SCN issue/allegation → Client facts → Response to allegation → Supporting evidence → Information to confirm → Conclusion/next steps.

5. First draft

The draft should clearly separate facts from arguments, use cautious language, include [TO CONFIRM] where necessary, and contain no invented legal citations or facts.

Verification

The trainer should emphasize that the supplied judgments are fictional training references. In real work, citations and legal propositions must be checked against authoritative sources before use.
